

Mrs. Stokesberry
History 201

Each student will sign up for 2 non-related topics. For each topic, they will need a book. I require that they copy from the site the bibliographical information which will also indicate the pagination for the book. It is possible for them to copy off both sites to one sheet of paper. They also need an article for each topic from a popular magazine, never magazines like time or Newsweek etc but magazines which present historical topics in magazines designed for the general public. They also must have an article for each topic from a scholarly journal. They need to print off the bibliographical information for each article. I prefer they look by issue number for both the popular and the scholarly. They will need the 1st page of one of these articles. Not the title page of the periodical but of the article itself. They will need 2 different specialized reference sources for each. They will need to copy the title page plus the article. The last part of the assignment is to use their birthday and find a newspaper article printed on the day they were born. I will need a copy of the article to be included in the packet they turn in to me.

In all there are 2 books, 2 scholarly articles, 2 popular articles, 2 specialized references, and 1 newspaper article. They will write 3 paragraphs for me.

I require my students to use the Chicago style of citation with a slight modification which I outline for them.
